1.0.General:

Auditor ID: An essential requirement of an Auditor is to have an account on the BIS login system for registration. Auditors are identified through the BIS login system.

2.0. New ID:

All auditors have to generate their new ID and password. The login ID and password is generated at the time of registration. After registration, password could be changed by auditor but not login ID. For all purposes of database, the auditor is identified with login ID.

All communications from system and independent mails are addressed to this login ID.

The access to various menus and documents are controlled through the ID of auditor. Any auditor finding it difficult to login shall contact administrator in MSCD through mscd@bis.org.in.

3.0. File number:

A separate file is being maintained in MSCD for each auditor which contains approvals, qualification documents, etc. A separate numbering system is adopted for locating hardcopy of the file because the user id is not continuous and unique. When an auditor is inducted for the first time, the system, automatically assigns the next available number which can be used for subsequent addition to new management systems.

File numbers can be obtained by login into the system. In the auditor menu, same details of status, login ID, date of birth, systems qualified, CPA approved, technical areas approved could be noted.

4.0. Notice board:

An auto scrolling notice board is displayed in the MSCD module, whenever user logs into the BIS system. It is a common notice board for all auditors. Further, auditors are advised to check periodically the notice board to keep themselves updated with the latest information related to MSC with an expiry link for every item. The link to the item will be removed upon expiry.

The notice board is expected to expand as a new interactive system to transfer and gain knowledge. All changes are always brought out in the notice board.
